most practical applications of artificial neural networks are based on a computational model involving the propagation of continuous variables from one processing unit to the next in recent years data from neurobiological experiments have made it increasingly clear that biological neural networks which communicate through pulses use the timing of the pulses to transmit information and perform computation this realization has stimulated significant research on pulsed neural networks including theoretical analyses and model development neurobiological modeling and hardware implementation this book presents the complete spectrum of current research in pulsed neural networks and includes the most important work from many of the key scientists in the field terrence j sejnowski s foreword neural pulse coding presents an overview of the topic the first half of the book consists of longer tutorial articles spanning neurobiology theory algorithms and hardware the second half contains a larger number of shorter research chapters that present more advanced concepts the contributors use consistent notation and terminology throughout the book contributors peter s burge stephen r deiss rodney j douglas john g elias wulfram gerstner alister hamilton david horn axel jahnke richard kempter wolfgang maass alessandro mortara alan f murray david p m northmore irit opher kostas a papathanasiou michael recce barry j p rising ulrich roth tim schönauer terrence j sejnowski john shawe taylor max r van daalen j leo van hemmen philippe venier hermann wagner adrian m whatley anthony m zador jean barbot who served as a commercial agent on french slave trading voyages to west africa in 1678 9 and 1681 2 in 1683 began an account of the guinea coast based partly on his voyage journals only one of which is extant and partly on previous printed sources the work was interrupted by his flight to england as a huguenot refugee in 1685 and not finished until 1688 when barbot found that his lengthy french account could not be published he rewrote it in english enlarging it even further and then continually revising it up to his death in 1712 the manuscript was eventually published in 1732 barbot s book had considerable influence on later european attitudes to black africa and the atlantic slave trade and in modern writings on both subjects is frequently cited as evidence the french account serves as the base for the present edition and is presented in english translation but additional material in the later english version is inserted the edition concentrates on barbot s original information he copied much from earlier sources this derived material is omitted but is identified in the notes the original material mainly on senegal sierra leone river sess gold coast and the calabars is extensively annotated not least with comparative references to other sources apart from its narrative interest the edition thus provides a starting point for the critical assessment of a range of early sources on guinea the edition opens with an introductory essay discussing barbot s life and career and analysing his sources barbot provided a large number of his own drawings of topographical and ethnographical features in particular drawings of almost all of the european forts in guinea many of these illustrations are reproduced this volume covers the coast from the river volta to cape lopez the main pagination of this and the previous volume 2nd series 175 series is continuous this is a new print on demand hardback edition of the volume first published in 1991
