trisha brown re shaped the landscape of modern dance with her game changing and boundary defying choreography and visual art art historian susan rosenberg draws on brown s archives as well as interviews with brown and her colleagues to track brown s deliberate evolutionary trajectory through the first half of her decades long career brown has created over 100 dances six operas one ballet and a significant body of graphic works this book discusses the formation of brown s systemic artistic principles and provides close readings of the works that brown created for non traditional and art world settings in relation to the first body of works she created for the proscenium stage highlighting the cognitive kinesthetic complexity that defines the making performing and watching of these dances rosenberg uncovers the importance of composer john cage s ideas and methods to understand brown's contributions one of the most important and influential artists of our time brown was the first woman choreographer to receive the coveted macarthur foundation fellowship genius award art of making dances presents modern dance as theater it contains a short history of the dance and various chapters discuss design dynamics and rhythm of dance it includes a check list for composers of dances and an appendix of all the dances composed by miss humphrey an investigation of dance and choreography that views them not only as artistic strategies but also as intrinsically theoretical and critical practices the choreographic stages a conversation in which artwork is not only looked at but looks back it is about contact that touches even across distance the choreographic moves between the corporeal and cerebral to tell the stories of these encounters as dance trespasses into the discourse and disciplines of visual art and philosophy through a series of stutters steps trembles and spasms in the choreographic jenn joy examines dance and choreography not only as artistic strategies and disciplines but also as intrinsically theoretical and critical practices she investigates artists in dialogue with philosophy describing a movement of conceptual choreography that flourishes in new york and on the festival circuit joy offers close readings of a series of experimental works arguing for the choreographic as an alternative model of aesthetics she explores constellations of works artists writers philosophers and dancers in conversation with theories of gesture language desire and history she choreographs a revelatory narrative in which walter benjamin pina bausch francis alÿs and cormac mccarthy dance together she traces the feminist and queer force toward desire through the choreography of dd dorvillier heather kravas meg stuart la ribot miguel gutierrez luciana achugar and others she maps new forms of communicability and pedagogy and she casts science fiction writers samuel r delany and kim stanley robinson as perceptual avatars and dance partners for ralph lemon marianne vitali james foster and janet cardiff and george bures miller constructing an expanded notion of the choreographic joy explores how choreography as critical concept and practice attunes us to a more productively uncertain precarious and ecstatic understanding of aesthetics and art making this book offers new ways of thinking about dance related artworks that have taken place in galleries museums and biennales over the past two decades as part of the choreographic turn it focuses on the concept of intersubjectivity and theorises about what happens when subjects meet within a performance artwork the resulting relations are crucial to instances of performance art in which embodied subjects engage as spectators participants and performers in orchestrated art events choreographing intersubjectivity in performance art deploys a multi disciplinary approach across dance choreography and evolving manifestations of performance art an innovative overarching concept of choreography sustains the idea that intersubjectivity evolves through places spaces performance and spectatorship drawing upon international examples the book introduces readers to performance art from the south pacific and the complexities of de colonising choreography artists tino sehgal xavier le roy jordan wolfson alicia frankovich and shigeyuki kihara are discussed the author writes this book was conceived after 35 years of work in dance which had brought me in touch with almost every kind of form and philosophy and which had suggested to me certain conclusions which i was anxious to articulate my appointment as dance lecturer at the university of birmingham in 1965 provided me with the opportunity to work out these conclusions in a practical way and gave me the incentive to write this book when i returned to london in 1978 i found a great striving for something new expressed in publications mushroom organisations and an almost audible shriek for classes which would provide that something i would suggest that it is not these sources which will fill the gap for dancers and choreographers but the rediscovery of forgotten routes which will enable the individual to create his or her own new dance my own work with rudolf laban kurt jooss and sigurd leder leads me to believe that it is by returning to the ideas of these great pioneers of theatrical dance that the way forward may be found my aims in this book are four fold 1 to examine the roots of anatomical and physiological action through practical experience 2 to identify principles and laws arising from these roots in relation to the performing arts 3 to find evidence of similar roots in the work of those who have influenced attitudes philosophies and techniques from the 16th century and 4 to formulate principles and rules for today by looking once again into the origin of dance within the body and spirit in terms of its own laws there is a category of choreographic practice with a lineage stretching back to mid 20th century north america that has re emerged since the early 1990s dance as a contemporary art medium such work belongs as much to the gallery as does video art or sculpture and is distinct from both performance art and its history as well as from theater based dance the persistence of dance choreography as concept and material in contemporary art explores this history by looking at the continuities and differences between the second wave dance avant garde in the 1950s 1970s and the third wave starting in the 1990s through close readings of key artists such as maria hassabi sarah michelson boris charmatz meg stuart philip gehmacher adam linder agatha gothe snape shelley lasica and latai taumoepeau the persistence of dance traces the relationship between the third wave and gallery based work looking at these artists highlights how the discussions and practices associated with conceptual dance resonate with the categories of conceptual and post conceptual art as well as with the critical work on the function of visual art categories brannigan concludes that within the current post disciplinary context there is a persistence of dance and that a model of post dance exists that encompasses dance as a contemporary art medium
